Dear OR Coordinator:
I would like copies of any legal opinion, memo, memorandum sought by or given to the executive director's office (or other state executive) where the TDCJ legal offices or Texas Governor's to TDCJ that justified the seminary program as constitutional. I am not talking about court cases. I feel at some point in 2010-2012 and to the present, someone like Brad Livingston or Bryan Collier asked about its legality, and that the TDCJ's lawyers wrote some kind of response allowing Livingston, et al, to go ahead and start the program.

There may not have been anything written. But it just stands to reason as Grover Norwood and Lt. Gov. Dan Patrick and Bryan Collier began the program, they sought a legal opinion or memo of some kind.

Sincerely,

Michael G Maness
